2.2 General Information

Weather

At the end of February is still winter in Bologna and temperature are usually around 7°C during the day and can easily go around or below 0°C during the night. It's highly recommended to check the weather forecast before leaving.

ELECTRICITY

Italy uses 220V, 50Hz electricity, which is compatible with most modern devices.

You will mainly encounter two types of sockets. Type F (Schuko) is common in Europe and works with C and E plugs, but it's not guaranteed to be available in every room. The other one, Type L, is the standard Italian socket and the one you'll most likely find in hotels. It accepts Type C plugs (like most phone chargers), but Type F plugs—often used for laptops—require an adapter.

There is also an older, larger 16A Type L version, now uncommon, where some chargers may not fit.

LANGUAGE & MONEY

The primary language spoken in Bologna is Italian, but English is widely understood, especially in hotels, restaurants, and tourist areas. Visitors generally have no difficulty communicating.

Italy is part of the European Union, and the official currency used throughout the country is the Euro.
